Cetostearyl Alcohol (101316)

(INCI: Cetearyl Alcohol)

A minimum of three randomly chosen representative batches of the product in question have been tested against the JSQI 2021, monograph requirements. All batches, without deviation were found to be compliant with the JSQI requirements.

Based on the understanding of the raw material quality, manufacturing process conditions used and analytical results it can be stated that further batches of the product in question, when tested against the JSQI 2021 requirements, are expected to be compliant.

It must be noted that the JSQI requirements are not scope of the product specification or the batch related product release and certification. This must therefore be understood as an information and not as a guarantee or specification.
